Pirosmani was born in the village of Mirzaani, Georgia, in 1862. He began painting at a young age, but it was not until he moved to the city of Tbilisi in 1890 that he began to develop his signature style. In Tbilisi, Pirosmani worked as a sign painter and a waiter, and he often painted scenes from everyday life on the walls of taverns and restaurants.

Pirosmani's paintings are often characterized by their vibrant colors and simple forms. He often used bright, primary colors, and his figures are often depicted with exaggerated features and poses. Pirosmeni's paintings also often feature animals, plants, and other elements of the natural world.

Pirosmani's work has been praised for its originality and its ability to capture the essence of Georgian culture. He is considered one of the most important figures in the history of Georgian art, and his paintings are held in collections around the world.
