Created by the acclaimed author Sydney Taylor, the All-of-a-Kind Family series is a beloved collection of stories that chronicle the adventures and misadventures of five lively sisters: Ella, Henny, Sarah, Charlotte, and Gertie.

A Window into a Bygone Era

Through the eyes of these charming characters, we are transported back to a time when horse-drawn carriages roamed the streets, families gathered around flickering gaslights, and Jewish traditions were woven into the fabric of everyday life.

Taylor's vivid descriptions and keen observations bring this era to life, offering readers a glimpse into the customs, values, and aspirations of American Jews at the turn of the century.

A Celebration of Family and Childhood

At the heart of the All-of-a-Kind Family stories lies a profound celebration of family bonds.

Mama and Papa Cohen provide a loving and supportive foundation for their daughters, nurturing their dreams and guiding them through the challenges of childhood.

The sisters' unbreakable sibling bond is a source of constant joy and comfort, as they navigate the ups and downs of growing up together.

Through their adventures, the sisters learn valuable lessons about friendship, perseverance, and the importance of being true to oneself.

A Tapestry of Jewish American Culture

The All-of-a-Kind Family series also provides a unique window into Jewish American culture during a period of significant immigration and assimilation.

The Cohens observe Jewish traditions and holidays with warmth and devotion, instilling in their daughters a deep appreciation for their heritage.

Taylor's nuanced portrayal of Jewish life celebrates its richness and diversity, while also addressing the challenges faced by Jewish families in a rapidly changing society.

The series offers a timeless exploration of the complexities of identity, belonging, and the search for a sense of place in a new land.
