In this article, we'll take a look at 10 teams that changed the NBA forever.

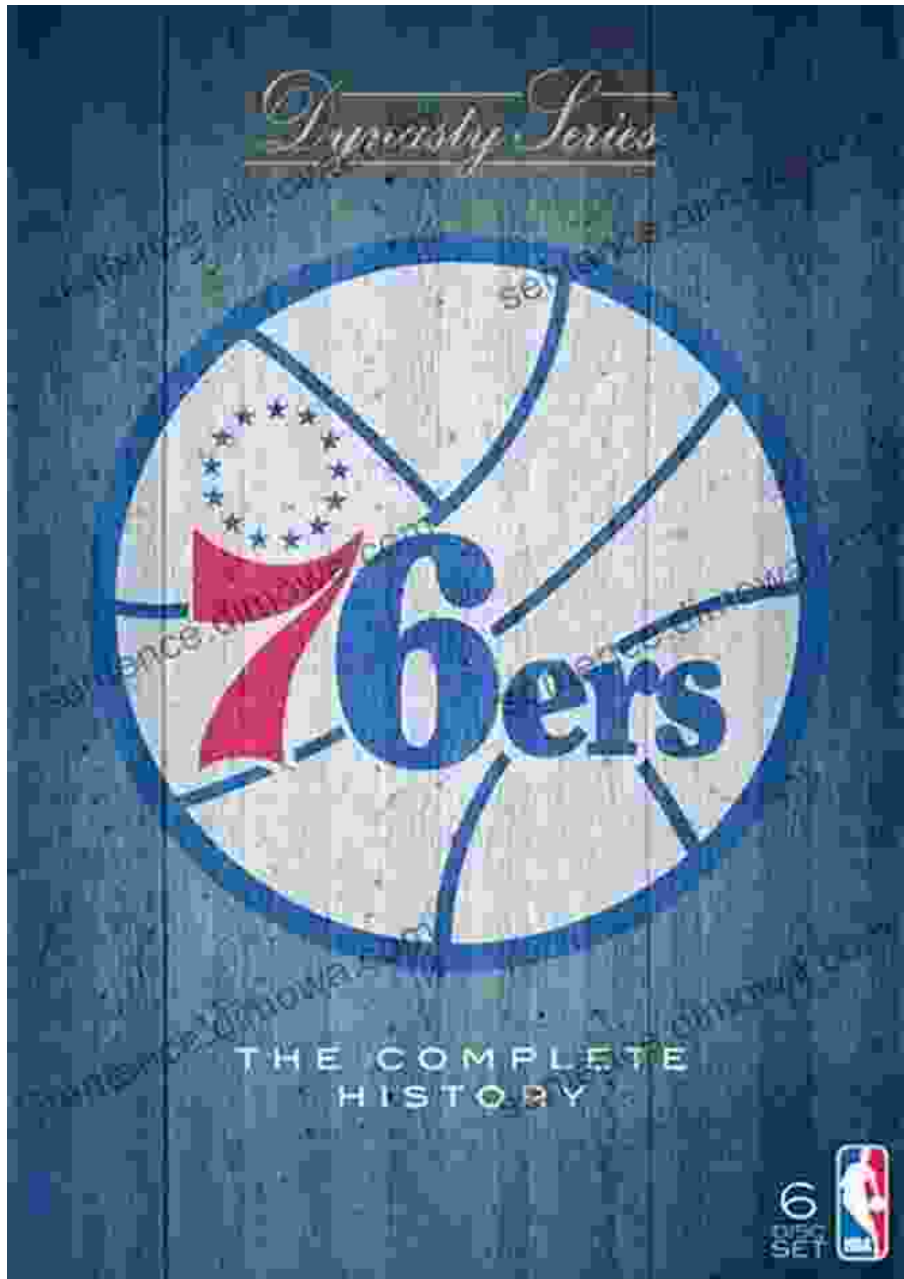

1. The Boston Celtics (1959-1966)

The Boston Celtics are the most successful team in NBA history, with 17 championships. The team's dynasty in the 1960s was led by Bill Russell, one of the greatest players in NBA history. Russell was a dominant force on the defensive end, and he led the Celtics to 11 championships in 13 seasons.

The Celtics' success in the 1960s helped to popularize the NBA and make it one of the most popular sports in the United States.

2. The Philadelphia 76ers (1966-1967)

The Philadelphia 76ers were the first team to beat the Celtics in the NBA Finals in the 1960s. The 76ers were led by Wilt Chamberlain, one of the most dominant players in NBA history. Chamberlain was a 7-foot-1 center who averaged over 30 points and 20 rebounds per game for his career.

The 76ers' victory over the Celtics in the 1967 NBA Finals was a major upset. It showed that the Celtics were not invincible, and it helped to open up the NBA to new teams and players.

3. The Los Angeles Lakers (1971-1972)

The Los Angeles Lakers are one of the most iconic teams in NBA history. The team has won 16 championships, and it has been home to some of the greatest players in the game, including Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Magic Johnson, and Kobe Bryant.

The Lakers' Showtime era in the 1980s was one of the most exciting periods in NBA history. The team's fast-paced, high-flying style of play was a major departure from the more traditional style of play that had been popular in the NBA up to that point.

The Lakers' success in the Showtime era helped to popularize the NBA and make it one of the most popular sports in the world.

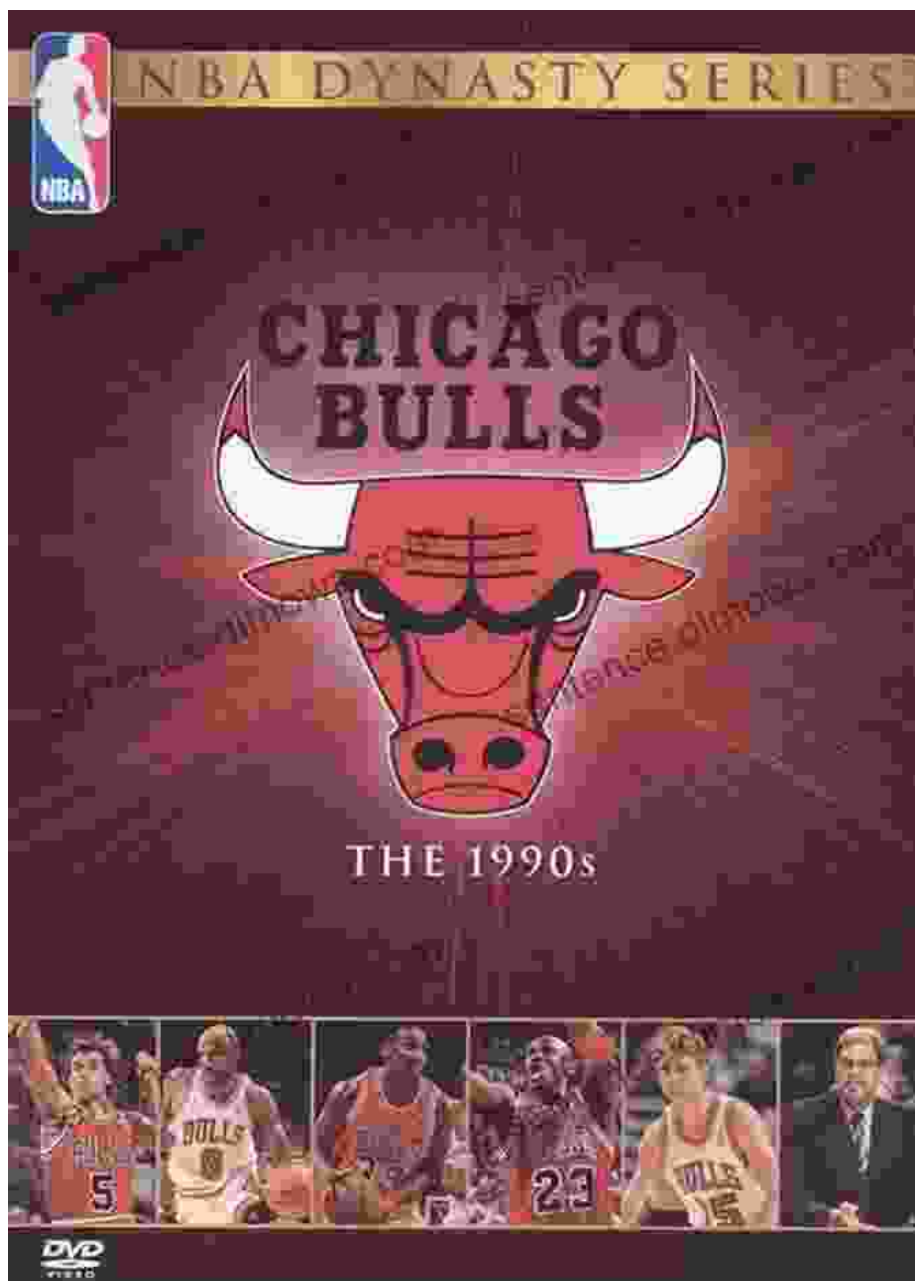

4. The Boston Celtics (1985-1986)

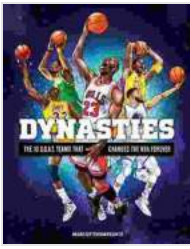

The Boston Celtics returned to the top of the NBA in the 1980s, winning three championships in four years. The team was led by Larry Bird, one of the greatest players in NBA history. Bird was a versatile forward who could score, rebound, and pass with equal skill.

The Celtics' success in the 1980s was a major factor in the NBA's resurgence in popularity. The team's rivalry with the Los Angeles Lakers was one of the most intense rivalries in sports history, and it helped to attract new fans to the game.

5. The Chicago Bulls (1991-1993)
