

Trabant Trek: Crossing the World in a Plastic Car

In 2017, two friends, Karl-Heinz Dallmeier and Jens Müller, embarked on an extraordinary journey: to drive a Trabant, a quirky and iconic East German car, around the world. Their goal was to explore the globe, meet new people, and share the unique experience of traveling in such an unconventional vehicle.

Trabant Trek is the captivating memoir of their adventure. With stunning photography and heartwarming storytelling, Dallmeier and Müller take readers on an unforgettable journey across continents and cultures. From the bustling streets of Bangkok to the remote villages of Mongolia, they encounter a diverse cast of characters and experience the unexpected challenges and rewards of long-distance travel.

Along the way, they learn about the history of the Trabant, a car that was once a symbol of East German ingenuity and resilience. They also discover the transformative power of human connection, as they forge friendships with people from all walks of life. Through their interactions with locals, they gain a deeper understanding of the world and its people.

But the journey is not without its challenges. The Trabant, with its two-stroke engine and plastic body, is constantly breaking down. Dallmeier and Müller must rely on their resourcefulness and determination to keep their car going. They also face bureaucratic hurdles and cultural misunderstandings, but they never lose their sense of humor or their passion for exploration.

Trabant Trek is more than just a travelogue. It is a story of friendship, adventure, and the indomitable human spirit. Dallmeier and Müller's journey is an inspiration to anyone who dreams of exploring the world and making a difference. Their book is a testament to the power of perseverance, the importance of human connection, and the enduring spirit of the Trabant.
